

New Road Book

Houlton members of the Maine Automobile association will soon receive the new Maine Automobile Road Books and Pine Tree Tour, which have just been issued from the Information Bureau of the Maine Automobile association. The book is attractively bound this year, well arranged and is far superior to any previous book issued from the same source.

There are several maps, all good ones, and the information is complete and reliable.

There is a sportsmen's map contained in the new book, which will be extremely valuable to automobilist who uses his car on his hunting trips for the game regions of eastern and northern Maine.

There is another map that gives the auto routes for the entire state that are mentioned in the book. In connection there are city maps for Portland, Bangor, Auburn and Houlton, and an automobile map of Mt. Desert Island. All of the maps are well arranged and far superior to the maps in the old book.

The Pine Tree tour, which is one of the principal features of the book, covers 11 days and provides for the following trip: Portland to Belgrade Lakes, Belgrade Lakes to Rangeley Lakes, Rangeley Lakes to Moosehead lake, Moosehead lake to Bangor, Bangor to Bar Harbor, Bar Harbor to Bangor, Bangor to Rockland, Rockland to Waterville, Waterville to Bethel, Bethel to Dixville Notch, Dixville Notch to Franconia Notch and Bethlehem, from there to Poland via Crawford Notch, and from Poland into Portland.

The routes in and out of Maine to and from Boston are given and there is extensive information about the White Mountains, with three special tours from the White Mountains to Bar Harbor, the first or northern route passing through Bethel, Rumford, Farmington, Skowhegan and Bangor; the central route through Poland Springs, Lewiston, Augusta, Waterville and Bangor and the coast route via Portland, Bath, Rockland and Bangor.

There are a great many side trips contained in the book leading to points of scenic and historic interest, and special attention has been paid to Arrostook county, the route from this city being given by way of Lincoln, Mattawamkeag, Macwahoc, Silver Ridge and Houlton.

A digest of the Maine auto laws, the regulations concerning cars entering Canada, the Maine game laws and a statement from the state forest commissioner warning against setting fires in the forest lands will add the automobilist.

There are several pages of facts of interest about Maine and its resources and a general index as well as a city and city index which will give all information at all times of the year.

Beware of

Unclean Milk

During the hot weather milk is particularly susceptible to contamination and for that reason the United States Department of Agriculture is issuing a timely warning to housewives: Beware of Unclean Milk!

When milk is delivered it should be put into the refrigerator at once. A very brief exposure to summer heat makes it unfit for use. If it is impossible to have the bottles put immediately into the refrigerator, provide on the porch a box containing a lump of ice. In planning a house, arrange to have the refrigerator set in the wall with an opening on the outside. It is always possible to provide locks for these boxes or refrigerator doors, and supply the milkman with a key. The interior of the food compartment should be wiped every day with a clean cloth, and thoroughly scalded as often as once a week. Under no circumstances should the drainpipe of an ice box be connected with a sewer.

Before removing the cap from a bottle of milk, the cap and the neck of the bottle should be washed and carefully wiped with a clean cloth. The cap should not be pushed down into the milk. It may be easily removed with a sharp-pointed instrument without injuring the contents. The bottle when once open should be kept covered and the milk should be kept in the original bottle until it is used up. The original cap should not be replaced, but instead an inverted glass may be put over the top of the bottle. The bottle when not in use, should, of course, always be left in the refrigerator, and any milk that has been poured from it into another vessel should not be poured back. Onions and other foods having a strong odor, especially during hot weather, very easily impart their distinctive smell to milk that is left uncovered. This is an additional reason for always keeping milk in a covered receptacle.

Milk bottles should never be taken into a sick room for as they are usually returned to the milk man they may thus carry infectious diseases into other homes. Every milk bottle left at a house where there is an infectious sickness should be boiled before being returned. The best thing to do in such circumstances is to provide one's own milk bottles or covered dishes into which the milkman may pour the milk from his bottles. The duty of each individual to his neighbor in this connection is most important. The board of health may be called to disinfect milk bottles properly after they have been in a home where there is sickness.

In any case, bottles should be given reasonable care before they are returned to their owner. The practice of pouring vinegar or kerosene or other liquids into them temporarily when not in use should by all means be discouraged. The containers should be washed in cold water first and finally in warm water before they are returned to the farmer supplying the milk.

These little details of cleanliness are matters which cannot be regulated by the federal or the state governments. Rules and regulations that require pure milk to be delivered to the home may be rendered useless by careless individuals in the home. The best efforts of the milkman or farmer to deliver first class milk will amount to nothing unless individual housewives will cooperate for the good of the community.

Care of Babies

In the last 20 years infant mortality has been reduced in this country 50 per cent, and it is probable that with the spread of our knowledge concerning babies, the next 20 years will see the present mortality, which is still appallingly high, cut in two.

The lessened death rate has come about not so much from improved methods of treating diseases as from the successful endeavor to prevent disease. It is by means of preventive measures that the fight against sickness is to be won. It is simpler, safer, and more economical to keep the baby well than to cure the baby. Keep the baby well and you won't have to cure him. Our endeavors to prevent disease in babies should be directed along three lines, hygiene, diet and protection from infectious diseases.

The environment of the baby has much to do with preventing disease. A well ventilated room with an abundance of sunlight and protected against sudden changes in temperature should be provided. A daily bath with careful drying of the skin is no longer considered a luxury, but a need. There is a superstition that daily baths are weakening, but the opposite is the fact.

The baby's mouth should be left alone until the teeth have pierced the gums--there is danger of injuring the delicate mucous membrane of the baby's mouth--but when the teeth have appeared a small tooth brush is of the greatest service in preserving the teeth.

The eyes require no special attention after the first day of life, nor do the ears. The nose should be washed gently with a very moderate solution of table salt in water.

Of the greatest importance in preventing disease is a rational diet for the baby. The infant has a restrictive tolerance for food and if the tolerance is exceeded it is with hazard to the baby. The one rational food for the infant is mother's milk and every effort should be made to obtain this food. Infants nursed at the breast have a lower death rate than artificially fed babies, and they resist sickness much better.

Stated in figures, the baby fed by his mother is 10 times more danger than the breast fed baby. The baby should be nursed at regular intervals. The nursing should be continued for the greater part of the first year, though it is advisable to give the baby one bottle of artificial food about the fourth month, not so much as a welcome relief to the mother as getting the baby accustomed to this means of taking artificial food, which may be difficult to do at a later period.

Weaning should be accomplished gradually and according to the individual condition. If the baby cannot have human milk, the greatest care should be exercised in selecting food. Cow's milk such as is sold in the country as certified milk should be selected and then modified so as to resemble as nearly as possible human milk and at the same time respect the restricted digestive power of the baby.

Lastly may be mentioned the prevention of infectious disease. Keep the baby away from every sick person; rigidly isolate every one suffering from a contagious disease; disinfect all the excreta from the sick and destroy all the effects which may have come in contact with the invalid.

It is not generally appreciated that the seed of tuberculosis is usually sown in infancy, but such is the fact. Knowing that babies are especially sensitive to tuberculosis, they must be protected from every source of infection, both human and bovine. It is not possible within these limits to do more than to enumerate some of the measures of preventing disease in babies, but if our thoughts can be directed to the prevention of sickness victory in our fight against infant mortality is assured.

Our Representative in Congress

There is a new and pleasing chapter in the history of Maine avenue in the city of Washington, and Representative Guernsey of Maine, is the hero of it. The Congressional Record contains evidence that several times in the last two or three years Mr. Guernsey has made great efforts to have the name of "Maine avenue" abolished for the particular thoroughfare, which runs from the Botanical Gardens (which are close to the Capitol grounds) on a few blocks into the slums of South Washington. By way of explanation it might be interposed that lettered streets are east and west in Washington with numbered streets north and south. The avenues, one for every State in the Union, are diagonally across these squares. L'Enfant, a French engineer whom Washington employed to lay out the city plan, conceived these avenues with a military view. Cannon planted in the avenues could command the streets and play havoc with hostile armies.

And these avenues are, on the whole, the most beautiful and popular thoroughfares in the Capitol City.

Pennsylvania avenue, for instance, Massachusetts avenue, Connecticut avenue, and New Hampshire avenue traverse the most popular residential sections. Vermont and Rhode Island avenues, less pretentious names to the social world, are none the less well known. But Maine avenue is in a neglected portion of the city, although almost within a stone's throw of the dome of the Capitol. When Mr. Guernsey was newer as a member of Congress than he is now, one problem he tackled was how to have a Maine avenue that would rank with the other New England avenues in Washington. He introduced a bill to accomplish that, Congress after Congress. The commissioners of the District of Columbia did not care especially about the Pine Tree State. They reported unfavorably on the Guernsey bills. Accordingly the District of Columbia committee refused to report them. Mr. Guernsey tried to have the Maine avenue bill put on as a rider but the House voted him down. He sought to have the name of Maine avenue given a new thoroughfare leading from the pretentious new Union station. In that he also failed. He had made a most valiant fight which seemed to have been to no purpose. He yielded finally, and was so disconsolate that he kept far away from Maine avenue in fact and in his thoughts.

Senator Burleigh of Maine, while a member of the House was aware of what his colleagues had been doing. The Senator and Mrs. Burleigh some years ago took a ride into that section of the city. They motored up and down Maine avenue past the dilapidated houses and were jolted by the rough stone paving, probably very like what it was half a century ago. There was nothing in the ride to make them wish to take it again but none the less a few days ago they had another look that way and found Maine avenue transformed. The District commissioners had refused to have the name taken away but without any flourish of trumpets have been using generously from the appropriations for paving in laying Maine avenue resurfaced. They have also had it cleaned up. Maine avenue still as short a street as ever, is, however, very passable and there are now other things to be said in its favor.

One of these is its splendid old trees. Washington is a city of many magnificent varieties but Maine avenue is said to have the most beautiful trees in Washington. They are fine old oaks that arch perfectly overhead. In summer the avenue appears like a tunnel under overhanging boughs. The paving used to be so wretched no one thought much about looking up. Now people are beginning to go there to admire the tree scenery. More yet, the Botanical Gardens are to be abolished and made part of the Capitol grounds and Maine avenue leads directly into the gardens.

Senator Burleigh lost no time in apprising Mr. Guernsey what had happened. The Fourth Maine district Congressman has consequently become very proud of the Maine avenue, which he formerly despised and which he is largely responsible for bringing into respectability. On the heels of this information to him, there came to his office the past week a well known lady from the West. She had a number of old newspaper clippings that told of Guernsey's activities to have Maine avenue taken off the map of Washington. She protested against this, for the sake of the beautiful trees that line it.

Mr. Guernsey's persistence and industry in this instance is only characteristic. He is whittling away at something all the time and has become in the House one of the most useful members Maine ever had there. He keeps eternally at what ever he is undertaking and does not get discouraged. He sees a thing through to the end, whatever opposition it may encounter. He takes up the business of his district deliberately and methodically. Those who think he may be making headway slowly generally find that he keeps going when others are resting up and that, in the long run, he accomplishes his undertakings when others are only part way through with theirs.

His opportunity to do things has been curtailed, of course, while the House has been Democratic. That little matter, however, has not deterred him from industry. He helps in legislation wherever he can. Mr. Guernsey was of great service to the Banking and Currency Committee while it was framing the Currency law, now soon to go into full operation. Wherever Democrats let the Republicans into their councils, Mr. Guernsey was ready to serve. He displays little partisanship in his deliberations over committee business of the House, although when it comes to pure politics he does not forget for a moment that he is a Republican.

years toward good legislation for the territories as any other member of Congress. He had a part in much legislation for Arizona and New Mexico and helped frame the laws by which they became states. He has been identified with numerous good enactments for the Territories of Hawaii and Alaska. He was one of the leading men in framing the new railroad law for Alaska, by which that territory is to have a government built railroad. But thus it runs with Mr. Guernsey through a category of Congressional matters. However, he is a modest man personally and goes ahead without the blowing of horns.

Suicide.

Mr. E. W. Hare who with his wife and family have lived on the Barker farm on the North road for a number of years committed suicide by shooting himself in the head with a revolver Tuesday morning about 8 o'clock at the age of 50 years.

Mr. Hare has for the past year had more or less trouble with his head, and evidently was of unsound mind when he committed the deed. Everything that would lead a man of sound mind to do such an act was missing in this case as he was devoted to his family, in excellent condition financially and seemed to have everything to live for.

He leaves a wife and two children to mourn his death. The funeral will probably be held Thursday.

Mexican Situation.

Ambassador Dagama of Brazil has formally announced from Niagara Falls the practical settlement of the conflict between the United States and Mexico. He explained that while mediation would take an indefinite recess awaiting the outcome of the two Mexican factions to solve the internal problems of Mexico, the task of mediation was not yet concluded though an essential part of its work had been accomplished.

The ambassador spoke at a luncheon given by the three mediators to the newspaper correspondents. The entire American and Huerta delegations to the mediation conference were present and the remarks of Mr. Dagama after careful revision were made public later, constituting a formal statement of the work of mediation thus far.

"It is a source of satisfaction for me," said the ambassador, "to be able to say that one of the essential points of our program, that we go home with our task concluded, but we feel that so far we have averted war. We have established also a thorough agreement between the parties most directly interested and in complete harmony with the sentiments of the government of the United States that it is a principle of American policy to have our national problems always given a fair examination and settled without foreign interference. We understand that if such a result has been attained we shall have created a more favorable atmosphere in international politics in America."

GRAND CELEBRATION IN HOULTON JULY 4th

Everything Carried Out as Advertised. Events Witnessed by 10,000 People.

Houlton's Fourth of July celebration, under the auspices of the Houlton Park Association, on Saturday, was a Grand Success and was enjoyed by the thousands of people who visited the Hub of Aroostook, and its many attractions were admired by people from all parts of the State and New Brunswick.

The weather which always plays such an important part on occasions of this kind was ideal, clear, warm, and after the refreshing rain of last week everything was in readiness for the day. The town was in its holiday attire, every place of business and many private residences being decorated with national colors.

The early morning and excursion trains brought thousands of people, and all the roads from out of town were lined with teams all headed for Houlton and when they arrived there was entertainment for all, everything on the program being carried out as scheduled.

At 8 o'clock the band concerts were given in different sections of the town which served as a starter, and from then until the last of the fireworks were set off there was not an idle moment.

The automobile parade started at 9:45 and while not as large as last year, there were many well decorated cars and the committee awarded the prizes as follows:

First prize, Leigh Cleveland, $20.00
Second prize, James C. Madigan, $15.00

Third prize, Alice Madigan, $5.00
Promptly at 10:45 the Merchants' parade started and this was one of the best ever seen in Houlton. There were many unique and original floats but the most novel of all was the "circus parade" a take off by a number of our prominent young ladies and gentlemen, which elicited applause from the throngs which lined every street through which the parade started.

The parade was formed at the park and was made up as follows:
Chief Marshal Martin Lawlis
Platoon of Mounted Police
Houlton Band
Company L. N. G. S. M.
No. 1 Hose Co.
No. 1 Hose Wagon
Socanesset Steam Fire Engine
Hose and Ladder Truck
No. 2 Hose Wagon
Carpenter and McLeod, Horses

Huggard Bros. Carriage Manufacturers
McGarry Shoe Co.
F. P. Berry Dry Goods
Geo. Emerson Livery
Suffragettes
Cochran Drug Store
Palmer Shoe Store
John Watson & Co. Sprayers
Grange Picnic

The judges on the Merchants' Parade and the Calathumpians had hard work to decide so many being attractive and original, but they awarded them as follows:

MERCHANTS' PARADE
First, Hillside Floral Co.
Second, B. S. Green
Third, Geo. R. Avery

D. O. Orent of Portage has been the guest of his son F. O. Orent for a few days.

Mrs. Plooma Ingersoll of Orono who was called here by the death of her father returned home Tuesday.

Edgar E. Hamm of Dexter formerly of Houlton was in town last week visiting relatives and was warmly greeted by his many friends.

Miss Louise Chamberlain came down from Caribou to spend the Fourth with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Alphonso Chamberlain on Court Street.

The holiday program shown at the Dream Theatre on July 4th was one of the best ever seen in Houlton, and at each show "standing room only" was displayed at the box office.

Mr. and Mrs. M. McKusick of South Dakota who are visiting relatives in St. Stephen, N. B. were the week end guests of Mrs. McKusick's brother and wife Dr. and Mrs. E. C. Bates.

CALATHUMPIANS
First, Grange Picnic
Second, Suffragettes
Third, B. & A. Coach

Ball Games
MONTICELLO 10 HOULTON 4

Ralph Good and his band of supporters from Monticello put the sign on Houlton in a loosely played game winning by a score of 10 to 4.

Houlton started the game with a rush, scoring two runs in the first inning and it looked for a very few minutes as though there would be nothing to it but easy work, but the fielding of Houlton's team was pretty punk stuff, and errors figured to a great extent in all of the scores. Both teams will have to show better form in the field if they expect to draw crowds in future games.

Ralph and Roy Good did the battery work for the visitors, while O'Brien, Hartt and McDonald worked for Houlton.

Score by innings:
Monticello 0 1 2 2 1 0 2 0-10
Houlton 2 0 0 0 1 0 1 0-4

Races
The races at the park in the afternoon were the center of attraction for the large crowd of visitors, and long before 1:30 P. M. the mammoth grand stand was filled to overflowing, while all vantage points for team and automobile were quickly occupied. The program of racing was the best seen. The pick of horses from the leading stables in the State and Provinces were here and some of the finest racing that will probably be seen this season was witnessed.

A bad spill in the first heat of the 2:19 class when Flora P., driven by Monty Gerow collided with Hard Luck, driven by Chappelle, at the first turn of the heat throwing both drivers, fortunately resulted in no serious injury to either. Hard Luck was allowed to finish but Flora P. was adjudged distanced. The results:

2:14 TROT AND PACE PURSE $300
Thomas S. (Reed), Fort Fairfield 1 1 1
Dimple K. (Reed), Fort Fairfield 2 2 2
James K. Newdow, (Raymond), Fredericton 4 3 3

Lola Burns, (Sharon), Fredericton 3 4 1
Time, 2:19 1/2, 2:21 1/2, 2:19 1/2

The fireworks were made and set off by Mr. A. B. Hamm who has done this work for a number of years in Houlton and were satisfactory, being witnessed by many inside as well as outside of the Park.

The Band concerts given at 7 P. M. by the Millinocket, Grand Falls, Fredericton and Houlton Bands were much enjoyed, and the music by the visitors was especially good, showing careful training and being especially well balanced.

The day was marked by an absence of drunkenness, fist encounters or disputes of any kind, and no accidents occurred to mar one of the best celebrations ever given in Aroostook County.

Chief of Police Hogan had ten patrolmen on duty and they handled the crowd in a most satisfactory manner.

Miss Evelyn Pearce spent the week end with friends in Caribou.

Mrs. Geo. H. Moore of Ashland spent the Fourth with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Chandler on Heywood Street.

One of the thoroughbred Holstein heifers at the Davidson Stock farm of Gra Gilpatrick gave birth to twin calves on Monday.

The members of the L. O. L. will meet at the hall on Sunday morning next to attend the Congregational church at 10:30 A. M.

The members of Rockatema Lodge I. O. O. F. will go to Woodstock, Sunday, to attend the Memorial services of Woodstock Lodge. Members from here going by autos and teams.

Bids for the construction of the Trunk Line Highway consisting of 2 1/2 miles in Houlton on the County Road and 6 miles in New Limerick on the same road, will be opened at the office of the Highway Commissioner on July 21st.

L. D. Barrows, vista, from the office of the Houlton Commission, was in Houlton Tuesday, and went over the Trunk Line Road through Houlton and New Limerick.

Trip Over B. & A.

A party of eighteen ladies left here Tuesday for a trip over the B. & A. system in Mr. Todd's and Mr. Stewart's private cars which were placed at their disposal.

They will travel on regular trains, stopping Tuesday night in Searsport, Wednesday Moosehead Lake, Thursday Caribou, and Friday Fort Kent, returning home Saturday.

Auto Driver Arrested

One of our local automobile drivers was brought before Judge Carroll last week and fined for exceeding the speed limit.

There are a number of drivers in Houlton and vicinity who have not only been exceeding the speed limit, but also driving around town with their cut up open, the municipal officers have their numbers and names, and if they continue other arrests will follow.

Littleton Camp Meeting.

Littleton Camp Meeting will hold its annual session beginning Saturday Aug. 1st holding two full weeks closing Sunday Aug. 16th. Dr. Geo. E. Durgan who conducted the meetings last year will have charge this year and has a fine program arranged.

Bishop Theodore Henderson will be in attendance three days and will speak each day. The old seats have been removed from the out door auditorium the ground leveled and new ones put in their place making a very much needed improvement for any information regarding the meetings inquire of A. A. Stewart.

Aroostook Potato Growers' Assn.

The annual meeting of the A. P. G. Assn. was held in Houlton Tuesday at the office of Guy C. Porter, and was well attended.

Reports from the officers showed the association to be in a flourishing condition. A large amount of fertilizer and potatoes were handled during the year, with an encouraging outlook for the coming season.

The old board of officers was re-elected as follows:
Pres., L. E. Tuttle, Caribou
Vice Pres., A. C. Stanley, Monticello
Sec., J. E. Guion, Presque Isle
Treas., Guy C. Porter, Houlton.

Appreciation

Madame Alexander of Marion, Boston wishes for herself as the party through whom the gift was made, and for the Museum of Natural History of Grenoble, France, to which she has forwarded it, to publicly express grateful appreciation for a superb pair of Moose horns given by Mr. James C. Madigan of Houlton.

The French Consul at Boston, and the Fabre line of Steamships contribute their services in forwarding the gift free of charge.

The Curator of the Museum is M. Louis Berolle, a personal friend of Madame Marius.

The town of Grenoble is an ancient one, and is the chief town in the department of Isere, at the western foot of the Alps, a situation favorable for such a museum, which contains as may be expected exceedingly rich attractions, among which the one here mentioned will have a worthy place.

Col. Frank M. Hume Retires from Post Office

F. M. Hume, Post-master of Houlton for the past sixteen years and five months, retired from that office July 1st, succeeded by Mr. Dennis Sheehan.

During Mr. Hume's administration the business of the office has increased from $7000 to $23,000 annually.

Free Delivery, six Rural Delivery Routes and Parcel Post has been established. The efficiency with which all has been put in operation has not been questioned or criticised.

The perfect satisfaction given and shown by the critical public during his long term of service should be very gratifying to his friends and himself.

Mr. Hume enters the Geo. S. Gentle Company, Insurance Agency in which he has been a stockholder for several years, where we have no doubt he will make good, as he has in everything else that he has undertaken.

Mr. Gentle does not retire from the Agency as has been reported, but will be more relieved from the detail work of the office.

Queer Refuge for Hunted Stag.

Pursued by hounds a stag wounded in through the open French windows of the Y. M. C. A. buildings at Ashbourne House, Epsom, England, and took refuge in the ladder, which measures eight feet by six. The huntsman and whips quickly came up and, securing the stag with ropes, placed it in some stables, from which it was removed shortly afterwards.

John B. Madigan for Boundary Commission

It is understood that friends of Hon. John B. Madigan are to urge his appointment as a member of the International St. John River Boundary commission to succeed the late Hon. George H. Murchie of Calais. Mr. Madigan possesses the highest qualifications for the office, and is one of the leading lawyers in the state. He was prominently mentioned during Gov. Plaisted's administration for a position on the Supreme court bench and was a candidate for Representative to Congress two years ago and should President Wilson appoint him to the commission it is felt that it would be one of the best appointments that could be made.

It is understood that there is no regulation requiring that Mr. Murchie's successor on the commission should be a Republican, and it is believed that President Wilson will appoint a Democrat.

Libel for Divorce

To the Hon. Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court, next to be held at Caribou, in the County of Aroostook and State of Maine:

Ethel I. Weiler, of Houlton in said County of Aroostook, respectfully represents that on the nineteenth day of August, 1909 at Easton in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts she was lawfully married to Fred J. Weiler, of Houlton; that said Libelant has resided in this state in good faith for one year prior to the commencement of these proceedings, that her home has been at Houlton, Me., and Ludlow, Me., both in said county of Aroostook ever since her said marriage that ever since said time she has conducted herself towards said Libelee as a faithful, true and affectionate wife but that said Libelee, regardless of his marriage covenant and duty, on the 22nd day of June 1910, utterly deserted your Libelant without cause, and that said desertion has continued to the present time, being more than three years, during which time he has contributed nothing to her support that he has been guilty of cruel and abusive treatment towards your Libelant.

That your Libelant has made diligent inquiry, but that the residence of said Libelee is unknown to your Libelant, and cannot be ascertained by reasonable diligence. That there is no collusion between them to obtain a divorce; but that your Libelant believes that said bonds of matrimony ought to be dissolved, wherefore she prays that a divorce may be decreed.

And your Libelant further prays that reasonable alimony, or a specific sum in lieu of alimony, be decreed to her, and that she may have the custody of their minor child, named Grace E. Weiler, age five years.

ETHEL I. WEILER.
Signed and sworn to before me this twelfth day of June 1914.
ALBERT E. ADAMS,
Notary Public.

L. S. Supreme Judicial Court
Aroostook, ss.—
In Vacation, Houlton, June 30, 1914

GRAND CELEBRATION IN HOULTON JULY 4th

Everything Carried Out as Advertised. Events Witnessed by 10,000 People.

Houlton's Fourth of July celebration, under the auspices of the Houlton Park Association, on Saturday, was a Grand Success and was enjoyed by the thousands of people who visited the Hub of Aroostook, and its many attractions were admired by people from all parts of the State and New Brunswick.

The weather which always plays such an important part on occasions of this kind was ideal, clear, warm, and after the refreshing rain of last week everything was in readiness for the day. The town was in its holiday attire, every place of business and many private residences being decorated with national colors.

The early morning and excursion trains brought thousands of people, and all the roads from out of town were lined with teams all headed for Houlton and when they arrived there was entertainment for all, everything on the program being carried out as scheduled.

At 8 o'clock the band concerts were given in different sections of the town which served as a starter, and from then until the last of the fireworks were set off there was not an idle moment.

The automobile parade started at 9.45 and while not as large as last year, there were many well decorated cars and the committee awarded the prizes as follows:

First prize, Leigh Cleveland, $20.00. Second prize, James C. Madigan, $15.00.

Third prize, Alice Madigan, $5.00. Promptly at 10.45 the Merchants' parade started and this was one of the best ever seen in Houlton. There were many unique and original floats, but the most novel of all was the "circus parade" a take off by a number of our prominent young ladies and gentlemen, which elicited applause from the throngs which lined every street through which the parade started.

The parade was formed at the park and was made up as follows:

Chief Marshall Martin Lawlis. Platoon of Mounted Police. Houlton Band. Company L. N. G. S. M. No. 1 Horse Co.

No. 1 Horse Wagon. Sogaquest Steam Fire Engine. Hook and Ladder Truck. No. 2 Horse Wagon.

Carpenter and McLeod, Horse Dealers with 16 pair of horses. Taggett & Galtley Clothing. Putnam Hardware Co. Dunn Furniture Co.

Houlton Meat Supply. Jake Wise, Pontes. A. H. Fogg Co., Hardware. Millinocket Band.

B. S. Green Clothing Co. Smith Bros. Stores, Etc. Peabody Bros., Potato Carriers. James Peabody, Farming Implements.

Fred Drinkwater, Plumbing. Parody on Circus Parade. L. S. Purington Clothing. Grand Falls Band.

Harriette Millinery. Geo. Avery, Cigar Manufacturer. Hillsdale Floral Co. Houlton Camp Modern Woodmen of America.

McLeod Bros. Garments. John N. Adams, Agricultural Implements. J. A. Browne & Co. Dry Goods.

Sincock Millinery. Fredericton Band. Huggard Bros. Carriage Manufacturers. McGary Shoe Co.

F. P. Berry Dry Goods. Geo. Emerson Livery. Suffragettes. Cochran Drug Store.

Palmer Shoe Store. John Watson & Co. Sprayers. Grange Picnic. The Judges on the Merchants' Parade and the Calathumpians had hard work to decide so many being attractive and original, but they awarded them as follows:

MERCHANTS' PARADE. First, Hillsdale Floral Co. Second, B. S. Green. Third, Geo. R. Avery.

D. O. Orent of Portage has been the guest of his son F. O. Orent for a few days.

Mrs. Plooma Ingersoll of Orono who was called here by the death of her father returned home Tuesday.

Edgar E. Hamm of Dexter formerly of Houlton was in town last week visiting relatives and was warmly greeted by his many friends.

Miss Louise Chamberlain came down from Caribou to spend the Fourth with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Chamberlain on Court Street.

CALATHUMPIANS. First, Grange Picnic. Second, Suffragettes. Third, B. & A. Coach.

Ball Games. MONTICELLO 10 HOULTON 4. Ralph Good and his band of supporters from Monticello put the sign on Houlton in a loosely played game winning by a score of 10 to 4.

Houlton started the game with a rush, scoring two runs in timely hitting and it looked for a very few minutes as though there would be nothing to it but easy work, but the fielding of Houlton's team was pretty punk stuff, and errors figured to a great extent in all of the scores. Both teams will have to show better form in the field if they expect to draw crowds in future games.

Ralph and Roy Good did the battery work for the visitors, while O'Brien, Hartt and McDonald worked for Houlton.

Score by innings:

Monticello 0 2 1 2 1 0 2 0—10. Houlton 2 0 0 0 1 0 1 0—4.

Races. The races at the park in the afternoon were the center of attraction for the large crowd of visitors, and long before 1.30 P. M. the mammoth grand stand was filled to overflowing, while all vantage points for team and automobile were quickly occupied. The program of racing was the best seen. The pick of horses from the leading stables in the State and Provinces were here and some of the finest racing that will probably be seen this season was witnessed.

A bad spill in the first heat of the 2.19 class when Flora P., driven by Monty Gervoy collided with Hard Luck, driven by Chappelle, at the first turn of the heat throwing both drivers, fortunately resulted in no serious injury to either. Hard Luck was allowed to finish but Flora P. was adjudged disqualified. The results:

2.19 TROT AND PACE PURSE $500. Thomas S., (Reed), Fort Fairfield 1 1 1. Dimple K., (Reed), Fort Fairfield 2 2 2.

James K., (Newell), Raymond 3 3 3. Lady Wilkes, (Thigley), Houlton 4 4 4.

Time 2:18 1/2; 2:15 1/2; 2:14 1/2. 2.19 TROT AND PACE PURSE $500. Harry Mae, (Raymond), Fredericton 1 1 1.

Lilly Patchen, (Raymond), Fredericton 2 2 2. Hard Luck, (Carpenter), Bangor 3 3 3.

Lady Belle, (Gault), Woodstock 4 4 4. Flora P., (Reed), Fort Fairfield D.S. Time 2:23 1/2; 2:21 1/2; 2:17 1/2.

2.21 TROT, PURSE $500. Bangor, (Reed), Fort Fairfield 1 1 1. Miss Kiefer, (Raymond), Fredericton 2 2 2.

Norway W., (Sharon), Fredericton 3 3 3. Arrow Bell, (Brazz), Pittsfield 4 4 4.

Fannie M., (Saunders), Houlton 5 5 5. Time 2:20 1/2; 2:20 1/2; 2:17 1/2. 2.30 PACE, PURSE $500.

Alec Hal, (Raymond), Fredericton 1 1 1. Redana, (Reed), Fort Fairfield 2 2 2.

Lillian Patchen, (Raymond), Fredericton 3 3 3. Lela Burns, (Sharon), Fredericton 4 4 4.

Time 2:19 1/2; 2:21 1/2; 2:16 1/2. The fireworks were made and set off by Mr. A. B. Hamm who has done this work for a number of years in Houlton and were satisfactory, being witnessed by many inside as well as outside of the Park.

The Band concerts given at 7 P. M. by the Millinocket, Grand Falls, Fredericton and Houlton Bands were much enjoyed, and the music by the visitors was especially good, showing careful training and being especially well balanced.

The day was marked by an absence of drunkenness, fistie encounters or disputes of any kind, and no accidents occurred to mar one of the best celebrations ever given in Aroostook County.

Chief of Police Hogan had ten patrolmen on duty and they handled the crowd in a most satisfactory manner.

Miss Evelyn Pearce spent the week end with friends in Caribou. Mrs. Geo. H. Moore of Ashland spent the Fourth with her parents Mr. and Mrs. Lowell Chandler on Heywood Street.

One of the thoroughbred Holstein heifers at the Davidson Stock farm of Gra Gilpatrick gave birth to twin calves on Monday.

The members of the L. O. L. will meet at the hall on Sunday morning next to attend the Congregational church at 10.30 A. M.

The members of Rockabema Lodge L. O. O. F. will go to Woodstock, Sunday, to attend the Memorial services for Woodstock Lodge. Members from here going by autos and teams.

L. D. Barrows, Constable from the office of the Highway Commissioner, was in Houlton Tuesday, and went over the Turnpike Road through Houlton and New Limerick.

Trip Over B. & A.

A party of eighteen ladies left here Tuesday for a trip over the B. & A. system in Mr. Todd's and Mrs. Stewart's private cars which were placed at their disposal.

They will travel on regular trains, stopping Tuesday night in Searsport, Wednesday Moosehead Lake, Thursday Caribou, and Friday Fort Kent, returning home Saturday.

Auto Driver Arrested

One of our local automobile drivers was brought before Judge Carroll last week and fined for exceeding the speed limit.

There are a number of drivers in Houlton and vicinity who have not only been exceeding the speed limit, but also driving around town with their cut open, the municipal officers have their numbers and names, and if they continue other arrests will follow.

Littleton Camp Meeting.

Littleton Camp Meeting will hold its annual session beginning Saturday Aug. 1st holding two full weeks closing Sunday Aug. 16th. Dr. Geo. F. Durgan who conducted the meetings last year will have charge this year and has a fine program arranged.

Bishop Theodore Henderson will be in attendance three days and will speak each day. The old seats have been removed from the out door auditorium the ground leveled and new ones put in their place making a very much needed improvement for any information regarding the meetings inquire of A. A. Stewart.

Aroostook Potato Growers' Assn.

The annual meeting of the A. P. G. Assn. was held in Houlton Tuesday at the office of Guy C. Porter, and was well attended.

Reports from the officers showed the association to be in a flourishing condition. A large amount of fertilizer and potatoes were handled during the year, with an encouraging outlook for the coming season.

The old board of officers was re-elected as follows:

Pres. L. E. Tuttle, Caribou. Vice Pres. A. C. Stanley, Monticello. Sec. J. E. Gault, Presque Isle. Treas. Guy C. Porter, Houlton.

Appreciation

Madame, Alvan L. Martin, Boston wishes to herself as the party through whom the gift was made, and for the Museum of Natural History of Grenoble, France, to which she has forwarded it, to publicly express grateful appreciation for a superb pair of Moose horns given by Mr. James C. Madigan of Houlton.

The French Consul at Boston, and the Fabre line of Steamships contribute their services in forwarding the gift free of charge.

The Curator of the Museum is M. Louis B. Rollet, a personal friend of Madame Martin.

The town of Grenoble is an ancient one, and is the chief town in the department of Isere, at the western foot of the Alps, a situation favorable for such a museum, which contains as may be expected exceedingly rich attractions, among which the one here mentioned will have a worthy place.

Col. Frank M. Hume Retires from Post Office

F. M. Hume, Post-master of Houlton for the past sixteen years and five months, retired from that office July 1st, succeeded by Mr. Dennis Sheehan.

During Mr. Hume's administration the business of the office has increased from $7000 to $23,000 annually.

Free Delivery, six Rural Delivery Routes and Parcel Post has been established. The efficiency with which all has been put in operation has not been questioned or criticized.

The perfect satisfaction given and shown by the critical public during his long term of service should be very gratifying to his friends and himself.

Mr. Hume enters the Geo. S. Gentle Company, Insurance Agency in which he has been a Stockholder for several years, where we have no doubt he will make good, as he has in everything else that he has undertaken.

Mr. Gentle does not retire from the Agency as has been reported, but will be more relieved from the detail work of the office.

Queer Refuge for Hunted Stag.

Pursued by hounds a stag bounded through the open French windows of the Y. M. C. A. buildings at Ashbourne House, Epsom, England, and took refuge in the larder, which measures eight feet by six. The huntsman and whips quickly came up and, securing the stag with ropes, placed it in some stables, from which it was removed shortly afterwards.

John B. Madigan for Boundary Commission

It is understood that friends of Hon. John B. Madigan are to urge his appointment as a member of the International St. John River Boundary commission to succeed the late Hon. George H. Murchie of Calais. Mr. Madigan possesses the highest qualifications for the office, and is one of the leading lawyers in the state, he was prominently mentioned during Gov. Plaisted's administration for a position on the Supreme court bench and was a candidate for Representative to Congress two years ago and should President Wilson appoint him to the commission it is felt that it would be one of the best appointments that could be made.

It is understood that there is no regulation requiring that Mr. Murchie's successor on the commission should be a Republican, and it is believed that President Wilson will appoint a Democrat.

Libel for Divorce

To the Hon. Justice of the Supreme Judicial Court, next to be held at Caribou, in the County of Aroostook and State of Maine:

Ethel I. Weiler, of Houlton in said County of Aroostook, respectfully represents that on the nineteenth day of August, 1909 at Boston in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts she was lawfully married to Fred J. Weiler, of Houlton; that said Libelant has resided in this state in good faith for one year prior to the commencement of these proceedings, that her home has been at Houlton, Me., and Ludlow, Me., both in said county of Aroostook ever since her said marriage that ever since said time she has conducted herself towards said Libelee as a faithful, true and affectionate wife but that said Libelee, regardless of his marriage covenant and duty, on the 22nd day of June 1910, utterly deserted your Libelant without cause, and that said desertion has continued to the present time, being more than three years, during which time he has contributed nothing to her support that he has been guilty of cruel and abusive treatment towards your Libelant.

That your Libelant has made diligent inquiry, but that the residence of said Libelee is unknown to your Libelant, and cannot be ascertained by reasonable diligence. That there is no collusion between them to obtain a divorce; but that your Libelant believes that said bonds of matrimony ought to be dissolved, wherefore she prays that a divorce may be decreed.

And your Libelant further prays that reasonable alimony, or a specific sum in lieu of alimony, be decreed to her, and that she may have the custody of their minor child, named Grace E. Weiler, age five years.

ETHEL I. WEILER. Signed and sworn to before me this twentieth day of June 1914.

ALBERT E. ADDIS, Notary Public.

L. S. Supreme Judicial Court Aroostook, ss.—

Legal Newspaper Decisions

1.—Any person who takes a paper regularly from the post office—whether directed to his address or another, or whether he has subscribed or not—is responsible for the payment of it. If any person orders his paper discontinued, he must pay all arrears, or the publisher may continue to send it until payment is made and collect the whole amount when it is taken from the office or mail.

2.—The courts have decided that refusing to take newspapers and periodicals from the post office, or removing and leaving them unopened for a prima facie evidence of fraud. If you want to stop your paper, write to the publisher yourself, and don't leave it to the post-master.

When you hear a man continually sneering at the home paper it's a safe bet he owes the editor a dollar.

Is Relief in Sight?

Is something of practical benefit to country people about to come out of Washington, or is it to be another pipe dream?

Congress is taking up the matter of good roads, and a bill has been practically agreed upon which provides for the raising of a highway fund for the issue of 3 per cent government bonds.

This money is to be loaned to the states, which are to deposit in the United States treasury their own bonds bearing 4 per cent interest as security. The states would use the money thus obtained in the building of better roads throughout the country.

If there is any thing on earth that is needed in this country it is better roads. Our public highways are a disgrace to civilization. They are the worst of any country on earth which makes any pretensions to advancement.

Congress has legislated for years in behalf of almost everyone it could think of, except the man from the country. Billions of the public money have been spent, and millions of that have been more or less useless extravagance. The pork barrel has always been open to the politicians.

If they afford us the means of obtaining better country roads we will cheerfully accord them the credit of earning at least a portion of their salaries.

It is quite time for the man from the country to have his inning.

"Safety First."

While the efforts which are making today to impress on the public the slogan "Safety First" may seem somewhat fantastic, this is "an age of advertising" and one in which even the great moral precepts of the world need that sort of treatment.

The American people are careless. They do not instruct their children in caution. The risks which youngsters are permitted to take, in the highways, on the water, and in a thousand and one other places, occasion constant surprise that we do not have more accidents instead of fewer.

There is a science to safety, just as there is to conduct, and everything else. People do careless things with gasoline, because they do not understand its properties. They get off a car in the wrong direction because unaware of the great physical laws of momentum.

No better time of the year could be selected for the institution of such a campaign. July fourth prior to the rise of the "safe and sane" movement was the closest approximation to an All Fools' day of anything in the annals of nations, as the statistics of dead and wounded bore pathetic witness. That our outing season is one of risk is proved by the fatalities reported with painful regularity in each summer Monday's newspapers.

Let us therefore join in poking Mr. Everyman in the ribs to say: "Look out, be careful, think first." This hint need not be unrelated to our other great cause—fire prevention, purer food, forest conservation, etc. In "Safety First" would stand for the platform of a national party.

The Salem Fire.

Portland, Boston, Chelsea, Bangor, Baltimore—all cities that have had the experience of being partially destroyed by the ravages of the fire fiend, can fully appreciate the position in which Salem finds itself today. Salem is probably as well known the length and breadth of this country as any city. Every school boy and school girl in acquiring the history of the country acquires knowledge of Salem. Particularly here in New England are we familiar with Salem lore.

Salem was an unfortunately fertile field for the flames with its many wooden buildings in close proximity and so long as there are cities where such conditions exist the occasional great conflagration seems inevitable. This, however, does not make the loss any less keen to the sufferers, or the affliction any less great. We all must extend our heartfelt sympathy, for so many it has taken away both home and employment, thus imposing a burden doubly difficult to meet and to bear.

There are still reasons for feeling thankful. Thankful that so many of the historic buildings, churches and wonderful colonial mansions were spared. Thankful that there was no serious loss of life. Then, too, the hardships, had the conflagration occurred in the dead of winter, must have been infinitely greater. Terrible as is the loss Salem will, as have other similarly afflicted communities, in time rejuvenate itself into a bigger and better city. We find comparatively recent examples of this in Chelsea, Bangor and Baltimore. Such catastrophes bring out all the pluck and resourcefulness of men and women, and no matter how great the blow, American courage has always proved indomitable.

Too Much City.

Every man makes mistakes. The wise profit by them—the foolish heed them not.

The young man of eighteen and twenty is on the threshold of life. He is face to face with one of the gravest of life's problems—his future.

At about this age many of the young men of the farm make their first great mistake, that of rushing to the big city. It is often a fatal one.

The brilliant electric lights and the "great white way" make an alluring picture to them. It sounds the call to which youth quickly responds.

But all is not gold that glitters. There is much of dross.

Large cities are overcrowded with men from the green farms of the country. A limited few have met with success, but the majority are in one weary and continuous struggle for bread.

For each job in the city there are from two to a hundred applicants. For every position of worth there are dozens of young men with "influential friends" to secure them preference.

Take a walk into the poorer districts of some great city. Ask the first "down and out" you meet where he spent his youth. He will most likely tell you "on the farm"—wish I was back again."

Go into the stores, the business offices, the shops, and ask the employees of mature years the same question. It will invariably be "on the farm, and I was a fool for ever leaving."

The best place in this world for the young man of the farm is right on that farm, or a better one.

If you use your brains, there is no limit to the wealth you may dig from the soil. Your opportunities are a hundred to one as compared to city life. The world is at the feet of the farmer.

The farm is crying for you—for more like you.

Cities are groaning under the weight of too many of you. The young man of the farm is wise when he knows the value of his opportunities—the danger of emulmical calls.

Sleep in the Open

Man is not a house animal. The habit of living in houses has been acquired. It was acquired that man might take up his home in inhospitable climates. He gains opportunity by living in houses. Everything must be paid for, however, and man pays in ill health for the larger opportunities which develop out of housing comforts.

The reason for living in houses is that comfort may be gained. Comfort is gained in the winter, but not in the summer. During the next four months living out will be more comfortable than living in. A large measure of unhousing is feasible, healthy and comfortable. It is worth thinking about. A tent in the yard on the roof, or the porch is more comfortable for sleeping than the rooms.

Any number of observations have been made proving that the walls of a house absorb heat during the day and feed it to the rooms during the night. In one series of observations the room air was at its hottest at 2 o'clock in the morning.

Experiments have shown that a man inside a room always at once re-breathes some of the air he has just breathed out. Even if the windows are open and the air is freely circulating, the next breath takes in some air which the last breath has just thrown out. Even a screen on a dead wall will cause some re-breathing of air. Nothing is 100 per cent effective except sleeping in the open.

I am sure we have all noticed that there is a freshness about the air on an open porch or roof that is not present even in a room with all the windows open. The two observations above cited are the reasons. Of course a room with the windows open is better than one with the windows closed.

We want to stay where we are and if we can go to the proper plan for do what we are doing. We would rather stay housed and pay the penalty than to go back to the neighbors' hood of Ararat, live out of doors, and wander around like gypsies. But mean cholera infantum.

CARBONOL

For Extra-thorough House Cleaning—

If you could have your whole house cleaned twice without any more labor than for cleaning it once, wouldn't you like to do it? You can give double power to your house cleaning by simply putting a little Carbonol into every bucket of water.

Carbonol is a wonderful disinfectant. A small quantity in a bucket of water is enough.

The water then kills germs wherever it goes. It destroys odors. It removes grease from everything it touches, for Carbonol is a wonderful grease remover.

Had Serious Lung Trouble--Now Well

Sufferers from Lung Trouble are often misled in the belief that nothing will save them. Rest, fresh air, wholesome food and regularity in habits do much in aiding to restore health, but something else is needed. Many people who have taken Eckman's Alternative have testified that it was this medicine which restored them to health. Read this:

"Gentlemen: Through your instrumentality I have been saved from a premature grave. On December 14, 1904, I was taken with Typhoid Pneumonia, which developed into Lung Trouble. In February, 1905, I went to Fort Worth, Texas, and later to Canon City, Colorado. After being there two weeks my physician informed me that my case was hopeless. Three weeks later I returned home, weighing 100 pounds, the doctor having given me no assurance of reaching there alive. On July 14, 1905, I began taking Eckman's wonderful remedy for Lung Trouble. Today I weigh 138 pounds. I am stout and well and can do any kind of work about my grain elevator."

(Advised by) ARTHUR WEBB. (Above abbreviated; more on request.) Eckman's Alternative has been proven by many years' test to be most efficacious for severe Throat and Lung Affections, Bronchitis, Bronchial Asthma, Stomach, Containing no narcotics, poisons or habit-forming drugs. Ask for booklet telling of its cures, and write to Eckman Laboratory, Philadelphia, Pa., for evidence. For sale by all leading druggists.

Gordon Craig

Soldier of Fortune — by Randall Parrish

Copyright, 1912, by A. C. McClurg & Co.

"No one sent you any word, then, that we were coming or gave you any orders to look after us?"

The blank expression of his face was sufficient answer. I waited a moment, thinking, endeavoring to determine my next move. This knowledge made one thing clear—we were playing a lone hand. As well planned as was the scheme of these two conspirators, they had reckoned without sufficient knowledge of the existing conditions here. But was this true? Would villains as shrewd as they be guilty of such neglect? Besides, they had assured me that the overseer would be notified of our coming. Suddenly there flashed back to my memory a picture of that murdered man in the rear room. Could he be the connecting link, the overseer sent by Neale? Only the harshest measure would compel Coombs to acknowledge the truth. I drew in my breath, every nerve braced for action. Then I jerked the pistol from my pocket and held it, glimmering ominously in the light, across my knee.

"You probably have some reason for trying to me," I said coldly, "and now I am going to give you an equally good reason for telling the truth. What do you know about the administrators of this estate? There is one named Neale, isn't there?"

"I-I reckon so."

"How do you know?"

"Well, feeling it useless to struggle against the argument presented by the blue steel barrel, 'all I know is a shlow com' long yer awhile back with a paper signed Neale, thinkin' ter take my job.'"

"What happened to him?"

"Oh, he just nat'ally got kicked out inter the road, an' I reckon he's a running yet. He was a miserable Yankee runt, an' I didn't hurt the cuss none to speak of. What yer askin' all this fer anyhow?" he questioned anxiously, "an a-drawin' that gun on me?"

"It seemed to be the only available method for extracting information. Pardon my insistence, Coombs, but wasn't that dead man up there the fellow Neale sent?"

"Not by a jugful," and I could see the perspiration break out on his forehead. "Why, there wasn't none enyhow. That guy skipped out north ag'in."

"Under whose orders are you in charge here?"

He was so long in answering, his eyes glaring ugly under heavy brows, that I elevated my weapon, half believing he meditated an attack.

CHAPTER VIII.

Circumstantial Evidence.

SUDDENLY I became aware that his glance was not directly upon me, and I lifted my own eyes to the surface of the tarnished mirror behind where he sat. It reflected the large portrait of the late Judge Henley hanging on the opposite wall, and—by the gods—I thought I saw it move, settle back into position! I was upon my feet instantly, swinging aside into a better position for defense. Before Coombs could realize what had occurred I had the gun muzzle at the side of his head.

"Now answer," I commanded sharply. "Whose orders put you here?"

He choked, shrinking back helplessly in the chair.

"You won't always have the drop on me."

"Well, I have now. Speak up. Who is the man?"

"Philip Henley," he whispered, so low I scarcely caught the name.

"What?"

"Well, I told yer," he growled resentfully. "Yer kin believe or not, just as you please, but so help me that's the truth. I reckon I know."

As I stared at him, half believing, half incredulous, I became conscious that he stood in the hall doorway. Coombs lifted his head, glad of any escape, and I glanced aside also, dropping the pistol back into my coat pocket.

"You—you were quarreling?" she asked, coming into the room. "You were so long I became anxious and came down."

"Nothing serious," I assured her smilingly. "Coombs here was a little reluctant to impart information, and I was compelled to resort to primitive methods. The result has been quite satisfactory."

"Kin I go now?" he asked uneasily.

"Yes, by way of the front door."

I watched his great bulging figure until he disappeared along the path leading around the house. I had no fear that he would ever face me openly. All I needed to guard against was treachery. Then I turned and looked into the questioning eyes of the woman.

"What did you learn? What did he say?"

"Only one thing of real importance," I answered in subdued tone, "and I dragged that out of him by threat. He was not employed by Neale, and the fellow who was sent down here to assist us was disposed of in some way."

"Killed you mean?"

"I suspect as much, but Coombs claims he was kicked off the place and returned north."

For a moment she stood silent, breathing heavily, her eyes on my face. In the pause I saw again the picture of the old judge and remembered.

"What is he here, then? What are you doing?"

"Come outside into the garden and I will tell you the whole story."

In front of the veranda and to the right of the brick walk the latticework of a small summer house could be discerned through a maze of shrubbery and weeds. On a rustic seat within we were completely screened from observation. With flushed cheeks and eyes bright and questioning she could scarcely wait for me to begin.

"Now tell me. Surely we are out of sight and hearing."

"I do not think I shall ever be entirely assured as to that until I know more of our exact situation," I replied, speaking cautiously. "We may have been seen coming here, and those weeds would easily conceal an eavesdropper. The truth is, I have gained very little information of value and am as mystified as ever. If that fellow told the truth it is beyond my understanding. I think he lied and yet cannot be sure. He claims to be working under the orders of Philip Henley."

"What? Impossible?"

"So I felt, and consequently hesitated to tell you, but now that I have been compelled to do so, I will explain in full. He said this under a menace, a condition which often inspires men to speak the truth. I can scarcely imagine his taking up such a story, for he is a dull witted fellow, and even before he had threatened to test my own claims to be Henley's wife."

"You told him, then?"

"Everything, except the original cause of our being here. I determined this morning to fight in the open, under my own name. That is the right way, is it not?"

"Yes, I think so," and she lifted her eyes to mine. "I like you better for that."

"I think I like myself better also," I said with a laugh. "I confess I didn't care much at first. But after what you said the night of our arrival I began to view the thing in a new light, and to despise my part in it. Yet even then I felt bound to carry out my agreement. It was only when you told me your identity, that I felt free to decide otherwise. I want to serve you, and I want you to respect me. Down in your heart you haven't really been assured that I was not one of that gang of conspirators. You came down here to watch me."

"No—no, I scarcely think I ever did doubt you, only it was all very strange. Nothing seemed real."

"We are both getting our heads above the mist now," I interrupted gently. "And deep as the mystery appears, when finally solved it will likely prove a very sordid, commonplace affair. The main thing is for us to thoroughly understand and trust each other."

"I trust you." And both her hands were impulsively extended. "I have from the very first. I did not come here to watch, but because I believed in you. Truly this was my motive rather than any thought of the property. I came because—because I knew you needed me. I had an intuition that you were going into danger, into some trap. It was not until that afternoon that I realized clearly what this all meant to me personally. I seemed to wake up as from a dream. Then I sat down in the rest room of one of those big department stores and thought it all out. At first I determined to tell you everything, but I tried—did not know you at all. I trusted you, I believed in you. I—I had to test you, Gordon Craig."

"My only wonder is that you retained any confidence."

"Oh, but I did," she insisted warmly. "That alone brought me here. I came back to you that night because—because I believed you to be a gentleman. I am convinced I chose aright. You are the man I thought you to be. I am glad I came."

For an instant the hot blood coursed through my veins. Wild words leaped to my lips, only to be choked back unspoken, although I scarcely knew what strength combined to win the swift struggle. Impulse, made with sudden revelation of love, swept me perilously near to outburst, yet reason held sufficiently firm to restrain the flood of passion. I knew I must refrain; I read it in the calm depths of those eyes fronting me in frank friendship.

A word, a single, mad, ill considered word would sever the bond between us as though cleft by a sword. With any other I might have dared all, but not with her. She trusted me—yes! But as a gentleman. Should I fail in that test of her faith I could never again hope to regain my place in her esteem.

"Let's not talk of ourselves," I said releasing her hands, "but of what we must face here. I have told you that Coombs claims to be working under the orders of your husband. Is that possible?"

"I cannot conceive clearly how it could be, and yet he might have received notice of his father's death in time to assume control of the estate by telegraph or even by letter."

"I hardly think Coombs has been here so short a time."

"He might have been the old overseer, however, and retained."

"True. Yet how could Philip Henley know that he had inherited the property?"

She thought a moment seriously, a little crease in the center of her forehead.

"Of course I can only guess," she hazarded at length, "but it would seem likely he was notified of his father's death by one of the administrators and doubtless told at the same time of his inheritance. He was the only son, and there were no other near relatives. It would be only natural for him to retain the old servants until he could come here and select others."

"There is only one fact which opposes your theory," I acknowledged, "otherwise I would accept it as my own also. Coombs plainly threatened to confront you with Henley to test your claim to being his wife."

"Even that would not be impossible," she admitted reluctantly, "for he must have known of the judge's death even before—before I left. Only I do not believe it probable, as he was in no condition to travel and had very little money. Besides," her voice strengthening with conviction, "those men who sent you here, Neale and Vall, would never have ventured such a scheme had they been uncertain as to Philip Henley's helplessness. I believe he is either in their control or else dead."

"Then Coombs lied."

"Perhaps, although still another supposition is possible. Some one else may claim to be his heir."

This was a new theory and one not so unreasonable as it appeared at first thought. Still it was sufficiently improbable, so that I dismissed it without much consideration. She apparently read this in my face.

"It is all groping in the dark until we learn more," she went on slowly. "Have you decided what you mean to do?"

"Only indefinitely. I want to make a careful exploration of the house and grounds by daylight. This may reveal something of value. Then we will go into Carrollton before dark. I cannot consent to your remaining here another night after what has occurred. Besides, we should consult a lawyer—the best we can find—and then proceed under his advice. Do you agree?"

"Certainly; and how can I be of assistance?"

"If you could go back to the house and keep Sallie busy in the kitchen for an hour; hold her there at something so as to give me free range of the house."

"With Sallie?" She lifted her hands in aversion. "It doesn't seem as though I could stand that. But," she added, rising resolutely to her feet, "I will if you wish it. Of course I ought to do what little I can. Why, what is this—a seal ring?"

She stooped and picked the article up from the floor out of a litter of dead leaves and held it to the light between her fingers. As she gazed her cheeks whitened, and when her eyes again met mine they evidenced fear.

"That—that was Philip Henley's ring," she said gravely. "Family heirloom; he always wore it. He must be here."

"At least it would seem that he has been. The seal is a peculiar one, not likely to be duplicated. But I doubt if he is here now, for he could have no reason for avoiding us, unless—"

"I know what you mean," she replied, as I hesitated, "unless he intended to repudiate me, to refuse me recognition."

"Is he that kind of a man?"

"No, not when sober. Under the influence of liquor he becomes a brute, capable of any meanness."

"Perhaps that may be the secret then. The others here may be keeping him intoxicated and hidden away for purposes of their own. However, this need not change our plans. Will you go in to Sallie?"

"Yes; it will be a relief to be busy, to feel that I am accomplishing something."

I stood upon the bench, from where I could look out above the weeds and tangled bushes, and followed her course to the house. At top of the steps she paused an instant to glance back and then disappeared within. I waited patiently, knowing that if she failed to discover the housekeeper she would give some signal. Meanwhile I watched the weed grown area about me carefully in search of any skulker observing our movements.

The knowledge that Philip Henley was alive, that any discoveries I might make would benefit him even more than his wife, roused me of some interest in the outcome. Nothing I had heard of the man was favorable to his character. I felt profoundly convinced that whatever affection his wife might have once entertained for him had long ago vanished through neglect and abuse. My sympathies were altogether with her, and I had already begun to dream of her as free. She had come into contact with my life in such a way as to impress me greatly. We had been thrown together in strange familiarity. Little by little I had grown to appreciate her beauty, not only of face, but also of womanly character.

I dreaded the reappearance of Henley. Would she return to him? Would she forgive the past? I could not be ignorant of the fact that she liked me, trusted me as a friend. But beyond this rather colorless certainty I possessed no assurance. She was not the kind ever to compromise with duty nor to pretend. No owe for me, even if it had already begun to blossom in her secret heart, would make her disloyal to sacred vows. I knew that and deep down in my own consciousness honored her the more, even while I struggled against the inevitable. Yesterday I might have spoken the words of passion on my lips, but now they were sealed.

I felt the pistol in my pocket, took it out and made sure it was in readiness, then advanced cautiously toward the house. The hall was empty and so was the front room. The latter appeared desolate and grim in its disorder and dirt. My thought centered on that picture of Judge Henley hanging against the further wall. I could never be satisfied until I learned absolutely what was concealed behind that heavy gilded frame. There was mystery to this house, and perhaps here I had already stumbled upon the secret. I opened the door leading to the rear, silently, and listened. There were voices talking at a distance, two women, one a pleasant contralto, the other cracked and high pitched. The lady was doing her part; I must do mine. I closed the door gently and stole over toward the picture.

A black haircloth sofa with broad mahogany arm offered two easy steps, enabling me to tip the heavy frame sufficiently so as to peer behind. The one glance was sufficient. Underneath was an opening in the wall much less in width than the picture, yet ample for the passage of a crouched body. The arm of the sofa made egress comparatively easy, while the frame of the picture, though appearing heavy and substantial, was in reality of light wood and presented no obstacle to an active man. The passage was black, and I thrust my head and shoulders in, striving to discern something of its nature. For possibly three feet I could trace the floor, but beyond that point it seemed to disappear into impenetrable darkness. This line of change was so distinct that I surmised at once it marked a descent to a lower level, either by ladder or stairs.

CHAPTER

A Chamber of Horrors.

HERE was no better way, as to what I must do. As yet, I had discovered this secret passage. It must be thoroughly explored. The safest way was to burrow through the dark, trusting to hands and feet for safety and prepared for any encounter. Whoever might be hidden away there would certainly possess some light, sufficient for any warning I needed.

Standing on the sofa arm I found little difficulty in pressing my body forward into the aperture until extending at full length the picture settled noiselessly back into place against the wall, excluding all light. Inch by inch silently I worked forward, anxiously exploring for the break in the floor, which I knew to be only a few feet distant. Even then I reacted it unaware of its proximity, experiencing a sudden unpleasant shock as my extended hand groped about, touching nothing tangible.

I was some time determining the exact nature of what was before me. There were no stairs, nor did any shafts of a ladder protrude above the floor level. Only as I lay flat and felt cautiously across from wall to wall could I determine what lay below. All was black as a well, as noiseless as a grave, yet there was a ladder exactly fitting the space spiked solidly into the flooring. My groping fingers could reach two of the rungs, and they felt sound and strong. With face outward I trusted myself to their support and began the descent slowly, pausing between each step to listen and gripping the side bars tightly. The blackness and silence, combined with what I anticipated discovering somewhere in those depths below, set my nerves tingling, yet I felt cool and determined to press on. Especially did I yearn to learn something definite about Philip Henley. This to me was now the one matter of importance—to be assured that he was living or dead.

WHY WEAK LUNGS?

The toll of tuberculosis is claiming more than 350 victims every day in the United States, yet few realize their grave condition until the critical period arrives. Overwork, worry, weakness after sickness, catarrh, bronchitis, tender throat—all exert the weakening influence that invites consumption.

To guard against consumption, thousands of people take Scott's Emulsion after meals because its rich medicinal nourishment strengthens the lungs, puts vigor in the blood, and upbuilds strength to resist tuberculosis. Scott's Emulsion is nature's strength-builder. Refuse substitutes.

Notice of Foreclosure

Whereas, Sarah J. Russell and Wylie Russell, husband and wife, of Houlton in the County of Aroostook and State of Maine, by their mortgage deed dated April 16, 1913, recorded in the Aroostook Registry of Deeds in Vol. 269, Page 114, conveyed to me the following described real estate situated in the town of Limestone, County of Aroostook and State of Maine, to-wit:—Beginning at the southeast corner of lot numbered six, 60, range eight, (8) thence west on south line of said lot to the southwest corner thereof, thence north on the west line of said lot forty, (40) rods, thence east, parallel with the south line of said lot to the east line thereof, thence south forty, (40) rods to the place of beginning, containing forty, (40) acres, more or less.

Also that part of lot six, 60, range seven, (7) which lies on the west side of the Stinson Road, so-called, described as follows:—Beginning at the northeast corner of the first above described land, thence north two rods, thence easterly parallel with the north line of said land first above herein described to said Stinson Road; thence southerly on the said road to the south line of said lot at the corner of said lot, thence north on the west line of lot numbered six, 60, range seven (7) to the place of beginning.

Being the same premises described in deed from Samuel J. Moore to said Sarah J. Russell, dated Feb. 21, 1905, recorded in the Aroostook Registry of Deeds in Vol. 232, Page 132; and whereas the conditions of said mortgage are broken, I claim a foreclosure of said mortgage by reason of said breach of conditions, and give this notice for the purpose of effecting said foreclosure.

Notice of Foreclosure

Whereas, James A. Haney of Caribou, in the County of Aroostook and State of Maine, by his mortgage deed dated May 19th, 1913, and recorded in the Aroostook Registry of Deeds at Houlton in Vol. 269, page 298, conveyed to me, the undersigned, the following described real estate, to-wit: Lot numbered Six (6) of Section "E" of Pearce Addition numbered two (2) to Houlton Village, according to a plan recorded in Vol. 131, page 27 of the Aroostook Registry of Deeds, as surveyed by A. A. Burleigh in 1900—1, and being a part of Town lot numbered thirty-four (34) in the south division of said Houlton. Also, the north half of that part of the road or Pearce Ave., running along the north side of said premises.

Subject to conditions as to fences contained in deed given by Frank Pearce to Bart J. Hallett in his deed dated April 26, 1901 and recorded in Vol. 184, page 430 of said Registry. Being the same premises conveyed to the said James A. Haney by Agnes S. Lyette, May 19, 1913.

And whereas, the conditions of said mortgage are broken, now therefore, by reason of the breach of the said conditions thereof, I claim a foreclosure of said mortgage and give this notice for that purpose.

Dated at Houlton, Maine, this twenty-third day of June, 1914.

HUDSON Six-40 For 1915

$1,550.

The Thoroughbred

The latest refinement in Sixes—one of the handsomest cars in the world—setting many new standards in high-grade cars, and another new record in quality price—the 1915 model of the car whose popularity compelled us in eight months to treble our output.

31 New Features

The HUDSON Six-40 came out last year to win a new field to Sixes. Our famous engineering corps—headed by Howard E. Coffin—had devoted three years to the model. It typified, in their opinion, the ultimate in Sixes, as denoted by modern trends.

In lightness, it set a new standard for cars of this capacity. It cut down old-time averages about 1,000 pounds. All this was saved, with no sacrifice of staunchness, by costlier materials and better engineering.

In economy, it lowered operative cost from 15 to 30 per cent under former like powered cars. This by lightness, by employing six cylinders and by a new-type motor.

In beauty, design and equipment it excelled, in some respects any other car of the year.

In price—than $1,750—it set a new record among cars of comparable quality.

We knew that men wanted this type of car. They wanted lightness, modest size, economy. They rebelled against overtax. Yet they wanted quality and they wanted beauty. And they wanted above all, a Six.

But we did not dream how many men wanted such a car. They flocked by the thousands to HUDSON dealers, and placed 3,000 orders more than we could fill. At the end of the season men were offering premiums—as high as $200—to obtain this right Six.

Now our 48 engineers have devoted another of the year to this car. They have brought the weight down 500 pounds. They have added comfort, convenience, silence and safety in important ways.

In the HUDSON Six-40 for 1915 we offer you the best consensus of present-day ideals. Many men must buy cheaper cars. Some will always want the big and costly. But most men will concede this new HUDSON Six-40 to be America's representative car.

Price $200 Less

The HUDSON Six-40 demand has compelled us to treble our output for next year. Building three times as many, our cost per car will be lessened by $200. So the price for 1915 has been fixed at $1,550.

That accords with HUDSON policy. It is the latest of the thousand things we have done to bring the best within reach of the many.

Think of this ideal car, the very embodiment of all that's desirable in a HUDSON and a Six—selling for $1,550. Only a little while back there was no Six sold for twice that.

The new HUDSON Six-40 is a thoroughbred Six. Its very lightness denotes the highest grade of materials and a masterpiece in designing. It is distinguished in lines and beauty. Its finish, its lights and equipment all show our infinite pains. It seats up to seven with the disappearing-tombau seats.

A year of use in thousands of hands has proved the faultless construction. And now this new model shows all the refinements which in four years have worked out.

Go to your HUDSON dealer and see it. It is the finest example you will find this year of the progress made in motor car building.

own dishes.

Miss Emma A. Jordan, who has received her Normal Diploma from the School of English, Speech and Expression, Boston, is the guest of relatives and friends in town and in Hodgdon. Miss Jordan has been teaching in the High School, Maynard, Mass.

Musical

It is now expected that Miss Eva Mylott, the famous Australian contralto will appear under the auspices of the Houlton
Music Club, Monday evening, July 27th, at Mansur Hall.

This will be a treat which no lover of music should fail to hear. Miss Mylott possesses a voice, rich, full, deep and of delicious quality which she uses in the manner of a perfect artist. A protegee of Mme. Melba and a favorite pupil of Mme. Marchese, she has scored many successes in England, Canada and America, appearing as soloist for the leading oratorio societies and symphony orchestras; also touring with Melba, Trebelle, and Albani.

Miss Mylott will be assisted on the program by a violinist and a pianist both eminent artists. Price of tickets $1.00, 75c and 50c.

Mrs. A. P. Macbrien

Mrs. Abbie Packard Macbrien died Monday morning at the home of her daughter in Haworth, N. J.

Her remains will arrive in Houlton, Wednesday evening, and on Thursday morning at 10 A. M. there will be a short service at the residence of Dr. H. L. Putnam on Military Street.

Interment will be at Evergreen cemetery.

Alvarez G. Putnam

In the death of Alvarez G. Putnam, which occurred on Tuesday, Houlton loses her oldest native citizen, at the age of 85.

Mr. Putnam has been in failing health for some time, and the infirmities of old age gradually weakened him until the end came.

One of seventeen children he had seen Houlton grow from a settlement in the woods to one of the most beautiful towns in the state. In his earlier days he drove a team for the late Shepherd Cary and later was employed in different capacities and afterward he learned the carpenter trade at which he worked.

Under the term of Sheriff of the late H. H. Putnam and F. W. Burns he had charge of the County Jail in the late eighties after which he lived in town two years and then moved to his farm on the Calais road where he spent his declining years.

Mr. Putnam was a man of many good qualities, and had a host of friends in Houlton who will miss his genial greeting and warm hand clasp.

He is survived by three daughters,
Mrs. Inez White Jackson of Houlton;
Mrs. Plooma Ingersoll of Orono; and Mrs. Christine Crowthers of Juneau, Alaska; one son, Percy of Grand Falls, Minn.; three sisters, Mrs. Isa Barnes, Mrs. Maria Burnham, Mrs. Harris Porter of Houlton; three brothers, Henry H. of Danforth; Varney of Weston and Samuel W. of Houlton.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon and were attended by a large number of friends and acquaintances.

Mrs. Finley MacDonald

The death of Mrs. Finley McDonald, while not unexpected brought sadness to many when it was learned that she had passed away on Wednesday, after a long illness.

In the death of Mrs. MacDonald, Houlton loses a noble woman; a devoted wife and mother, a true friend and kind and just neighbor and one whose aim was to endeavor as far as possible to live up to the Golden Rule.

Susan Adelaide Robinson Macdonald was born in Lower Brighton, Carleton county, N. B., on Feb. 8, 1841. She was married to Finley MacDonald on Dec. 25, 1863. Immediately after their marriage they moved to Houlton where they have since resided. On Dec. 25, 1913, they observed their 50th anniversary.
Mrs. MacDonald has reared four children, all of whom are living, this being the first time death has entered the family.

The funeral was held Friday, July 3, at 2 o'clock from the MacDonald home. Rev. F. C. Hartley officiating.
The Order of the Eastern Star, of which she was a member, attended and held services at the grave. Interment was made in the family lot in Evergreen cemetery.

Beside her husband, she leaves three daughters, Mrs. Joel E. Gray, Mrs. Chas. J. Ross, both of Brockton, Mass., and Mrs. Martin L. Durgin of Milo, and one son, Robert D.
MacDonald of Brockton, Mass.; two sisters, Mrs. Eunice Shaw of Mars Hill, Mrs. William Dow of Lower Brighton, N. B., and one brother,
Adam Robinson, also of Lower Brighton.

Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Kenney and son of Lynn, Mass., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Ludwig on Court
St.

The Congregational picnic will be held on Wednesday of this week at Nickerson Lake. If stormy it will be held on Friday.

Those who did not attend the address of Booker Washington missed one of the best evenings of instruction and information ever given in Houlton.

Rev. F. Clarke Hartley who has been pastor of the F. B. Church in this town for the past ten years, has resigned to accept a pastorate in Truro, N. S.

Meldrim--Glendenning

The St. John Globe says:
"At the Glen House, Harvey Station, Saturday, Miss Ida L., youngest daughter of Mr. David Glenden-ning, and Mr. David G. Meldrim, of Los Angeles, California, were married by Rev. L. Beaton."

Miss Glendenning has been for a number of years an operator at the Western Union Telegraph office, where she made many friends, while
Mr. Meldrim was a former resident of Houlton.

Autos by Express

F. A. Ordway of Portland, the State distributor for the Hudson automobiles, found it necessary to make a special trip to Detroit last week to arrange for the shipment of these cars to the Maine buyers, so great is the demand for them, and so anxious are the purchasers to get them as soon as possible. As a result of this trip, the cars are to be shipped immediately by express—not fast freight, mind you—but express and the balance will follow shortly by freight. The first express shipment of three touring cars and one roadster will arrive in Portland Saturday and the rest of the Hudson to come that way will be here in a few days. This is one of the largest express shipments of automobiles ever made and the largest in this State.

Although Mr. Ordway has been in this city only since March, he has built up a big trade in the Hudson, which is showing many improvements over last year's model, and only recently he returned from a trip about the State in which he closed up several agencies. He reported at that time that 75 of the Hudson cars had been sold, which shows that the prospective buyer is not long in discovering the many admirable qualities which the Hudson possesses.
Mr. Ordway is one of the hustlers in the automobile business and he is always ready to talk about the car which he represents and demonstrate what it will do.—Portland Press.—Adv.

Bulletin No. 1 Me. A. A.

Reports are being circulated throughout the country that owing to the fact that so much road construction is being carried on all over Maine, it is inadvisable for automobilists to visit the State this summer. The Maine Automobile Association, however, wishes it understood that this report is entirely incorrect. It is true that hundreds of miles of splendid new road are being built throughout the state but this work in no way interferes with traffic. This is due to the fact that the Maine Automobile Association, in working in conjunction with the State Highway Department, has laid out excellent detours around all of the work in progress and these have been plainly marked with special signs from end to end. In addition complete running directions have been prepared covering the detours and this information is now being posted and sent out throughout the country and will be mailed to anyone applying to the
M. A. A. Touring Information Bureau, 12 Monument Square, Portland, Maine.

One of the most noteworthy facts about the detours which have been laid out is that in almost every case, they are as good as the roads being rebuilt have ever been in the past and in many cases are very much better.

Some of the important road work
now being carried on by the State Highway Department throughout Maine includes the construction of the uncompleted bridge in the highway between Portsmouth, N. H. and Portland, Me.; the rebuilding of the worst section of the road between the New Hampshire line at Fryeburg and Bridgeton; the reconstruction of several miles of poor road on the important Lewiston and Augusta highway between Greene and Winthrop; and the building of several miles of the new road on the shore line between Portland and Rockland.

This last work includes the construction of a splendid bituminous macadam road between Portland and Brunswick, and which later will be continued on to Bath, this work being done jointly by the State of Maine and the Federal Government. Other work along this route includes long stretches between Woolwich and Wiscasset, as well as through Waldoboro.

Similar road building will be carried on this summer between Falmouth and Bangor; between Newtown and Rangeley; between Ena; between East Machias and Denys-ville, in the town of Whiting; thru the town of Northport on the Rockland and Bangor shore road; on the main route of travel into Aroostook County between Island Falls and Houlton; and in many other places.
These stretches of work will each average from about five to nine miles in length and when completed will cover practically all of the bad sections of trunk highway in the State.

The detours have been so laid out that they go nowhere near the work in progress and therefore motorists will not be obliged to plough through any road that is being dug up and rebuilt; on the contrary, they will not even be given the opportunity of getting a glimpse of the work that is being done.
Completed at an early date and in every case sections of the road being rebuilt will be opened as fast as completed.

State Meeting of Rural Letter Carriers

The annual meeting of the Maine Rural Letter Carriers Ass'n which was held in this town Friday and Saturday, July 3rd and 4th, was a most successful and enthusiastic one, although unfortunately the attendance was not as large as was anticipated, probably due to the fact of the long journey by rail necessary to reach Aroostook County, however what was lacking in quantity was fully made up in quality, and a great deal of important business was accomplished.

The opening session at 10.30 A. M.
Friday consisted of the usual routine of convention work which was quickly disposed of and the committees appointed, after which a recess was taken until afternoon, during which time many availed themselves of the opportunity of taking an auto ride about town on a sight seeing expedition to many of which, the appearance of our beautiful town with its many attractions, its fine residences and well kept lawns, its substantial business blocks etc. was a revelation.

The afternoon session was opened promptly at 1.30 o'clock and the committee on credentials reported delegates from nearly all of the counties in the state present which were given seats. The address of welcome was given by Hon. Frank A. Peabody, chairman of the board of selectmen who in a short speech told the visitors the pleasure he felt in addressing such a body of men and in offering them the freedom of the town during their stay.

Vice Pres. J. F. King, of So. Paris made the response, saying that the visit to Houlton while short, would not easily be forgotten, that the trip to Houlton had long been anticipated, and now the realization of the trip was a most delightful surprise, and thanked the speaker for the cordial reception given. The next speaker was John W. Davidson, Dept. State Inspector of road work who gave a brief talk on roads and road building, and as roads are a very important factor in the work of the rural carrier, his remarks were listened to with much attention as Uncle John is some talker when he gets started.

The next speaker of the afternoon was L. D. Barrows, of Augusta, State Highway Engineer, his address on road work was of an explanatory nature, he told of the great work the state was planning toward good roads, how the trunk line roads, with its feeders of state aid roads would soon be accomplished, that good roads meant good postal service, and during his remarks he made clear to those present some of the points that are being criticized by those who do not fully understand what is being done in this great road undertaking. Mr.
Barrows is a pleasing and earnest speaker and his remarks were loudly applauded.

The evening session consisted of a banquet for which about 100 plates were laid. H. A. Little, Asst. Postmaster acting as Toastmaster, the event was much enjoyed by all.

Saturday July 4th

Owing to close proximity of the convention hall to the center of the town where the celebration was taking place, with its numerous bands, its several parades etc, it was difficult to get settled down to work but as closing time was fast approaching the program was taken up as follows: Report of delegates to the National Convention. Election of Officers and the following is the choice of the convention.

R. N. Doore, Bradford Pres.
O. M. Givens, Pittsfield V. Pres.

Typhoid Serum

For Co. L

In compliance with an order from the Adj. General of the State of Maine, the members of Co. L, N. G.
S. M. were inoculated with typhoid serum, by Dr. Jackson, on July 4.

Three separate treatments at intervals of 10 days, are necessary as a preventative of this disease which so prevalent at camps where large bodies of men are mobilized, and when the annual State encampment is held in August every man in the National Guard will have been treated.

OLD FOLKS FIND NEW REMEDY RELIEVES ALL KIDNEY AND BLADDER MISERIES

Drives Rheumatic Pains Away,
Relieves Backache and Bladder Disorders After A Few Doses Are Taken

Sleep disturbing bladder weaknesses, backache, rheumatism, and the many other kindred ailments which so commonly come with declining years, need no longer be a source of dread and misery to those who are past the middle age of life.

The new discovery, Croxone, overcomes all such disorders because it removes the very cause of the trouble. It soaks right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings; cleans out the little filtering glands and cells, and gives the kidneys new strength to do their work properly. It neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid substances that lodge in the joints and muscles, causing rheumatism;
and makes the kidneys filter and sift out all the poisonous waste matter from the blood and drive it out of the system.

It matters not now old you are or how long you have suffered, Croxone is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. You will find it different from all other remedies.
There is nothing else on earth like it. It starts to work immediately and more than a few doses are seldom required to relieve even the most chronic, obstinate cases.

It is the most wonderful remedy ever made for restoring the lifeless organs to health and strength and ridding the system of every particle of uric acid, and you can take it with the utmost confidence that nothing on earth will so quickly cure such conditions.

You can obtain an original package of Croxone at trifling cost from any first-class druggist. All druggists are authorized to personally return the purchase price if Croxone should fail in a single case.

STATE OF MAINE

To the Honorable, the Judge of Probate, in and for the County of Aroostook:

Respectfully represents Walter F. Titcomb of Houlton, Administrator of the estate of Frank W. Titcomb late of Houlton in said County, deceased, in testate, that said Frank W. Titcomb at the time of his decease was the owner of certain Real Estate situated in Houlton bounded and described as follows:

viz: The house and lot situated on the westerly side of Riverside Street, so-called, in said Houlton, and being known as "The Walker House", bounded as follows:—

Commencing at a point on the westerly side of Riverside Street, so called, at an upright iron bar five-three and one-half (53 1/2) links from the point of intersection of the south-westerly line of Riverside Street with the south line of the County Road; thence south easterly on the south-westerly line of said Riverside Street five (5) rods to an iron pipe; thence south-westerly to the Meluxnekeag Stream; thence northerly up said stream five (5) rods; thence easterly to place of beginning.

That the debts of the deceased as nearly as can be ascertained amount to $2500.00

And the expenses of sale, and of administration to 100.00

Amounting in all to 2600.00

That the Personal Estate is therefore insufficient to pay the debts of the deceased, and expenses of sale and of administration and it is necessary for that purpose to sell some part of the Real Estate to raise the sum of 2600.00

That the residue would be greatly depreciated by a sale of any portion thereof;

Wherefore your petitioner prays that he may be licensed to sell and convey the whole of said Real Estate at private sale for the payment of said debts, and expenses of sale and of administration.

Dated at Houlton the sixteenth day of June A. D. 1914.

WALTER F. TITCOMB, Admr.

BROOKLYN TABERNACLE

GREATNESS THE REWARD OF SERVICE.

Mark 10:32-45—July 12.

"The Son of Man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give His life a ransom for many."—V. 45.

It was at the close of Jesus' ministry. For more than three years the Master had been calling His disciples and instructing them.

They had come to recognize Him as Messiah, through whom the Messianic Kingdom would be set up, to bless all mankind—dead as well as living.

The Master had particularly assured them that if faithful they should sit with Him in His Throne. However, He had not told them that His Kingdom would be a spiritual one, that before they could share it they would need the change of the First Resurrection, and that a whole age would intervene before that Kingdom would be established amongst men. But He had hinted all this.

In today's lesson Jesus again brought up the matter of the shame, ill-treatment and death which was to come upon Him. This time He included the thought of His resurrection from the dead on the third day. However, the matter was incomprehensible to the disciples; and they merely said to themselves, "This is another of the Master's dark sayings, which seem so mysterious."

Not until after Pentecost did the disciples get the full grasp of what Jesus had told them. There the Holy Spirit began to make plain the Divine arrangement—that the sufferings of all the Church must first come before the glories of the Kingdom would be revealed and the world's blessing begin.

Another account tells us that the mother of James and John came with them and voiced their plea for them. They believed that the time for distributing the Kingdom honors was very near. We need not assume that these two dear disciples sought the positions closest to the Master merely for ambition's sake. Rather, let us suppose that they loved the Lord very dearly, and therefore thought that they could appreciate a nearness to Him more than could some of the others. Indeed, they evidently appreciated being near the Master in His hours of deepest suffering, and were permitted to come nearer than the majority of the Twelve. They were glorious characters, whom the Lord greatly loved.

Let us mark carefully the words of Jesus. He did not say, "My dear disciples, there will be no Throne. On the contrary, He declared that while there would be a Throne, and places of preference in that Throne, those would not be distributed by Himself, but by the Father. Places in the Kingdom will be given absolutely on the score of quality.

"Are Ye Able?"—"My Cup, My Baptism?"

Jesus then made known the fact that any position whatever in the Kingdom would require the fulfillment of certain conditions. It was not enough that they had been called to discipleship, that they had left all to follow Him, that they had assented to His teachings. There must be something more; else they might not enter the Kingdom at all. These conditions the Master declared, saying, "Are ye able to drink of the cup that I shall drink of, and to be baptized with My baptism?"

In the Divine Plan, God had arranged that whoever will be entrusted with the Messianic Kingdom glory, honor and power for the blessing of the world, must demonstrate his worthiness. In Jesus' case the cup meant all those experiences of ignominy and shame, including crucifixion, which He underwent during the three and one-half years of His earthly ministry and which He fully accomplished at Calvary.

The Master's baptism at Jordan was merely a picture of the real baptism.

His going down into the water symbolically represented His going down into death and His resurrection therefrom. His real baptism progressed from Jordan to Calvary. When on the cross He cried, "It is finished." He meant that His baptism was completed. He was raised out of that death-baptism on the third day by the Father's Power.

That baptism meant the full renunciation of all earthly rights; and the Master asked those dear disciples whether they were able to share His cup of ignominy and His baptism into death. The same principle applies to all followers of Jesus. It is for each to decide whether he will drink of the Master's cup and share His baptism into death. Only the lowly, the self-sacrificing, will be able or willing to endure such experiences.

The other Apostles were indignant that James and John should have made such a request. However, the incident afforded Jesus opportunity for laying down the rules which must govern in respect to greatness in the Messianic Kingdom. There whoever serves most will have the highest honor.

Close Your Door on the Thief, Carelessness

CURRENCY in the pocket DEPRECIATES. In the bank it EX-PANDS. A person with a $100 check in his pocket likely will go all day without cashing it. With a similar amount of currency there is a tendency to SPEND A LITTLE. The check remains intact. So it is with a bank account. A person likes to KEEP IT INTACT.

Tobacco, Like Food, Must Be Fresh To Be Good

And tobacco cannot keep fresh after it is cut up, any better than bread or meat can. To get fresh tobacco, you must cut it off the plug yourself, just before it goes into your pipe. That's the way you use Sickle tobacco—that's the reason it burns slowly, and always affords you a cool, sweet, satisfying smoke.

Tobacco that comes already cut-up, in packages, gets dry and stale—burns fast and hot, and bites your tongue. The original flavor and moisture cannot escape from the Sickle plug—they are pressed in and kept in by the natural leaf wrapper.

More tobacco—fresh tobacco—no package to pay for—no waste—that's Sickle tobacco. Get a plug at your dealer's today.

Tell FLOUR

Is famous pie-crust flour—makes it tender and light and flaky and perfectly digestible. Just as good for bread and cake and biscuits and whatever you are baking. And the most economical flour milled—gives you most loaves to the sack.

Your grocer keeps William Tell. Insist on it next time you order flour.

PYRAMID OF GIZEN NO LONGER ENIGMATIC.

Unexpected Conclusions.

The very stones of the Great Pyramid of Gizeh are crying out in no uncertain tones. Every inch of the massive structure, with unerring precision, reveals the solutions to problems which the wisest of our civilized nations have failed to solve. The sum of science has been found, and the sum of science has been found.

The wonderful testimony of the Great Stone Witness, with its general description and storehouse of Truth, historic and prophetic, with its solutions to it, the importance of its location and verifications of astronomical and geographical deductions, is an extensive chapter of a volume which may be obtained by sending 50 cents to the Watch Tower Society, 17 Hicks Street, Brooklyn.
